

Is Twenty-First Century the Age of Devastation or Reason?

Outline

1- Introduction

2- Facts which prove that twenty-first century is the age of devastation

i- Conflicts ^{among} between global powers

ii- wars becoming new norms

Case in point: Armenia - Azerbaijan

Conflict

Russia - Ukraine

war

iii- Challenges of climatic catastrophe

iv- Overpopulation leading to inequalities

Case in point: Food inequalities in Asian and

African countries

v- Raised ethnic conflicts in the world

3 Factors which have contributed to make 21st century an age of devastation rather than reason

- i- Rise of populist leaders Case in point: Donald Trump
Mr. Modi
- ii- Fourth Industrial revolution
- iii- Advancement in Artificial intelligence
- iv- Elevated Arm race

4 Recommendations for eliminating the factors which are manufacturing the 21st century the era of devastation

- i- Active role of United Nations
- ii- Ensure promotion of democratic norms
- iii- Formulation of policies to combat Arm race

5 Conclusion

Different philosophers have been characterized history in numerous ways. Almost, all of the philosophers have emphasized on the urge to learn from history. World has observed devastated impacts of First and Second World Wars. Unfortunately, it is a regrettable fact that world has not learnt anything from the past catastrophic events.

There is no denying the fact that 21st century is the age of devastation. Raised global conflicts, massive floods, earthquakes, extreme weather events, and overpopulation leading to inequalities are some of the numerous manifestations proving that 21st century is an age of devastation. Rise of populism across the globe, emergence of fourth Industrial revolution and raised arm race in the world

Day: _____

Date: _____

are some of the many factors which are contributing in making 21st century the age of devastation. Although, the situation has become quite serious, yet a meticulous analysis reveals that it can be ameliorated by taking appropriate measures.