

Precis - 2022

Title: Ancient Greek Mythology

The fear of man need communication with the divine, which regulated the universe. Divine's knowledge always acts as a guidance for man. In ancient Greece the soothsayers had the ability to understand the cues of gods. Soothsayer expressed their oracles by depicting the nature of events happening in surroundings. The soothsayers for interpreting the dreams and for palmistry. However, sometimes gods did not give cues but directly spoke to an intermediate. Here, prophets and prophetess delivered the message of gods. These practices of prediction were the basis on which the oracles operated. Each oracle was associated with some gods. Apollo was the conventional soothsayer. Delphi and Dodona functioned with the assistance of Apollo and Zeus respectively.

Word Count:

Words in Original passage = 313

Words in precis = 304 (± 5)