

The opportunities for employment are decreasing due to the advent of artificial intelligence (AI) in the world. The reason is that people do not need to hire assistance in the presence of AI. Presently, there are several apps that can perform jobs more efficiently than a human being can do in short time. Thus, businessmen are preferring such apps to humans. For example, Native Chats is an app that lets business owners speak to their customers in their localized language with fluency. In this way, they do not have to hire an assistant for this job (Imran Batada, 'AI that works for all', February 2023). Given all that, AI is playing its pivotal role in depriving millions of people of their jobs across the world.
