Title: Psychoses and Neuroses

Psychoses and neuroses are the conditions in which man suffers from imbalance of polarities. In psychoses man's ego collapses when he is unable to fulfil his goal and regresses into unacceptable goal structures. He suffers from emotional imbalance, emphasizing on the use of one of the four mental functions that are thinking, feeling, intuiting or seeing. Both situations are basically the distance of self from self-actualization. Neurosis is caused by psychological disorder not by the deviation from culture. Because some sort of behaviors are acceptable in one culture but not in others. This is the issue of inability to balance out personal polarities, not the culture.
