

Economic crisis of Pakistan is rooted in bad governance

Outline

1. Introduction

Thesis statement: The root of economic crisis of Pakistan is bad governance because policies of successive governments has harmed its economy. Resultantly, Pakistan has been facing several societal issues. However, the collaboration between government and opposition and economic ties with other countries can better its economy.

2. How bad governance is responsible for economic crisis in Pakistan

3. Causes affecting the economy of Pakistan

- a) Nationalisation of industries
- b) Political witch-hunt
- c) Did nothing substantial to curb population growth
- d) Lack of investment in producing skillful youth
- e) Lack of facilities for entrepreneurs
- f) Employment of technocrats on the basis of nepotism
- g) Ignoring the speciality of technocrats while giving portfolios
- h) Ignoring the importance of dams
- i) Decline in agricultural sector
- j) Failed to curb terrorism

4. Impacts of economic crisis on society

- a) Increase in inflation
- b) Corruption is inevitable
- c) Rise in crime rate

5. Way forward to better the economy

- a) No politics on economics
- b) Continuation of policies initiated by previous regimes
- c) Resumption of trade with India
- d) Efforts to have cordial ties with Afghanistan

6. Conclusion