A Trip to Cherokee

The writer along with his friend took a flight to an exotic place Cherokee, a country in the state of Oklahoma. There, they visited a town "Qualla boundary" surrounded by mountains. Its villages represent the lifestyles of 18th century. A historic peagent played weekly unto these hills represent the ^{brief} ~~brief~~ history of Cherokee. With the help of a native, they found their way to the antique shop. They were amazed by shopkeeper fluent in English. The shopkeeper told them ^{that} the people of Cherokee not only depend on the trade, but also on other means for survival. Like Bingo weekend, to attract ~~various~~ people to
