Brutal punishments and Crime

Brutal punishments do not stop brutal criminals. It has been observed that the country having a high death penalty are also having high crime ratio. Notably, harsh punishments may create crimes in another form. However, the countries are having laws of harsh punishments are still facing the high ratio of crimes. Pakistan is the witness of such situation, during the era of General Zia Ul Haq, he announced executions in public but it may not affect the crime ratio. Crime reduction has to do with ensuring of punishments, not harsh punishments. (Rashad Bulchaxi, Justice or revenge, 1 Aug, 2023). In short, harsh punishment is not efficient to stop crimes.
