3- Multi-disciplinary nature of gender studies

Multi-disciplinary nature of gender studies is as below:

1) Sociology in Gender studies

Gender studies has also influence in sociology. In fact, gender studies advocates equality in social affairs.

Female and transgenders should also be treated equally in education.

- Toqeer Hussain
(Gender disparity)
-2021

Thus, gender studies is influencing sociology.

b) Psychology in gender studies

Along with sociology, gender studies also influence psychology. In fact, psyche is a main driver in gender construction.

Female are good in households and male should perform

external deeds."

(Faisal Bari, Social
inequality in gender, 2019)

Thus, gender studies also influences psychology.

c) Biology in gender studies

Moreover, gender
studies also leads to Biology.
Gender is treated according to biological factor.

"There should not be concern of biology in gender."

(Marry Wellstone)

Hence, gender studies also leads to Biology.

d) Anthropology in gender studies

Anthropology also comes under influence of gender studies. Male and female get roles according to features of masculinity and femininity in society.

• Males are aggressive, unkind, brutal, and brave,

while females are weak,

kind, and simple.

(Sigmund Freud)

Hence, gender studies advocates

equality in anthropology.

e) History in gender studies

Further, gender studies also leads to history. In fact, gender disparity is come from historical reasons.

"Unequal education,
unequal employment,
and

not right to vote

is still prevailing."

(Jermans)

Therefore, gender studies advocates equality in history.

f) Political science in gender studies

Further more, political science in gender studies is leading to gender disparity. Inequality in politics leads to grievance of genders.

"In general election of 2018, only 5 transgenders were allowed in candidates participation."

(- Faruk Bari, Transgenders, 2018)

Therefore, inequality in politics is also prevailing.

g) literature in gender studies

Genders are also treated unequal in literature. Roles are given unjust.

"Female is regarded as hostess, while

male is considered as host, but roles

should be neutral."

(Michael Foucault)

Hence, genders are also treated unequal in literature.

1) Journalism in gender studies
 Genders are also facing unjust in journalism. However, gender studies advocates just in journalism as well.

• Females are called heroines, while

males are represented hero, but roles

should be multiple.

(Clayle Rubin)

Therefore, gender studies also advocates equality in journalism.

2) Education in gender studies
 Gender studies

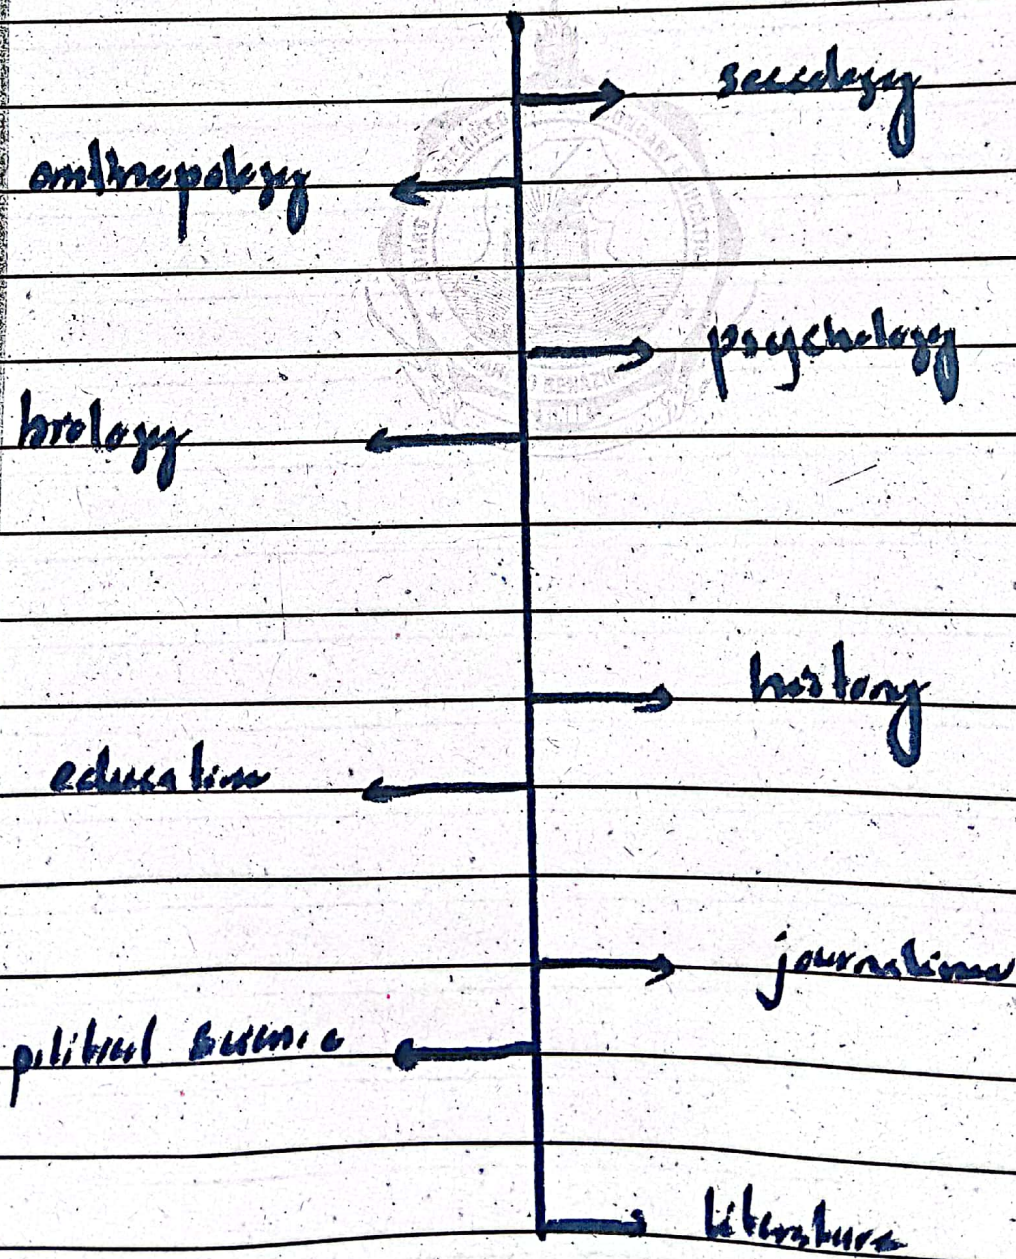

advocates equal education among all. Unfortunately, genders are facing inequality in education.

• Boys are allowed to go abroad for the higher studies, while women are allowed to stay at home. (- Many with time constraint)

Thus, gender studies also focus on equal education.
