

Pract Writing (1981)

Title:

Importance of Rules in Organization

An important work of management is to make rules so that most routine matters are resolved without manager involvement.

• Making relevant rules have double side advantages. Both the workers and managements are well aware about their limitation. Rules should be updated with the passage of time. On the other hand outdated and irrelevant rules create unhappy environment

As a result, relationship between employees and employers become weak due to breakage of rules. Another important thing keep in mind while making rule that make such rules which can be followed. ~~At other~~. Because disobey of one rule also disturb other rules. However, it is accept that nobody likes rules. Mostly will try to break them if a chance is given. As a result, organization with

Rule breaking habit becomes ruined

Rule breaking habit becomes ruined