

NUCLEAR CHALLENGE TO WORLD PEACE DURING 21ST CENTURY:

Topic Sentence: In this day and age, achieving world peace is a distant dream owing to the grim challenge posed by the presence of nuclear weapons.

Reasoning / Explanatory Sentence: Keeping in view the pace at which world is becoming more and more connected and a subsequent emergence of sub-state actors that work as anti force to world peace theories and treaties, it's difficult to say for how long world would be able to ~~stop~~^{resist} nuclear proliferation to unsafe hands.

Supporting Point: In 21st century, as the world arena has broadened and states have shifted to more responsible behaviours, there has been a sharp rise in inequalities too. These inequalities foster such groups that desperately want to get their hands on nuclear weapons.

Example: Knowing and apprehending the perils of a nuclear world, the leaders since decades have been chalking out policies and treaties to block nuclear weapon proliferation or abolish them completely. A famous quote, that sums up the entire debate, goes as:-
"The weapons of war must be abolished before they abolish us". (President John.F. Kennedy, 1961)

Concluding Sentence: Therefore, the world peace is at a grave risk with the presence of nuclear weapons and with the rapidly changing dynamics of today's world, a "hair-trigger" can result in an unimaginable catastrophe.
