Why Having a Personal Notebook is Valuable

Aristotle once said, "human being by nature is a social animal." It means human need interaction. There are many individuals who like to interact themselves, so they keep a notebook for personal interaction. Some individuals keep notebook to track their habits; some to fulfill their desire of writing - stories or fiction, and some to put down their thoughts. Talking about myself, I am one of them. In my point of view, having a personal notebook is highly valuable in one's life, and following text of writing asserts the proofs of this claim.

As it is claimed that having a personal notebook

In conclusion, keeping a personal notebook has a marvellous effect on one's life. It helps to deculter the thoughts. It imparts courage to step out from hard circumstances, and it encourages a productive life. Paulo Coelho—the famous novelist; once said, "Life is short; there is no time to leave important words unsaid." Hence, personal notebook is something which confidentially and genetaly receive our words. In short, having a personal ~~for~~ notebook is immensely valuable.
