Less Political Focus on Improving Agriculture in Pakistan.

There is a lack of political focus on enhancing agricultural growth in Pakistan. Absence of vibrant policies for the sector is pushing it backwards. An informative political discourse over the matter of agricultural reforms is overshadowed by discussions on political instability. Political leaders make their speeches more on political interests than promoting sector. Moreover, there is a lack of political will to implement available agricultural frameworks. Hence, it is political concentration which is lagging behind to enhance agricultural development of Pakistan.
