Common people think that laws and individual's freedom are antithetical. Apparently, it is not wrong. Every law imposes some restrictions on citizens. If a country has high number of laws then the overall restrictions are also high. Too many restrictions burden individual's freedom. On the other hand, if the laws are less in number, the freedom of citizens is wider.

Pakistan is committed to peace in Afghanistan, because peace in Afghanistan is extremely important for Pakistan. Historically, as neighbours and Islamic brother countries, Pakistan and Afghanistan are connected through history, culture and linguistic. This relationship is unbreakable, both are interdependent and cannot live apart. Since beginning, Pakistan's stance has been same that Afghan problems should be solved through political solution. China also supports this stance. Furthermore, China has said that Afghan conflict can only be solved through Afghan led peace talks. Pakistan and China will play their part to solve Afghan conflict for strategic partnership.
