

Government Role in Bringing Economic Stability

Pakistan is facing economic stability currently. Pakistan's reserved resources are declining fastly due to increase in import and decrease in export. In addition, Pakistani government is unable to take right decisions regarding maximization of production sectors, if government successfully brings reforms in production sectors it will automatically create positive impacts on economic stability. Moreover, if institutions ~~have~~ are given autonomy it can also help our country to maximize resources. Therefore, government should come forward to encourage foreign investors to invest in Pakistan. Secondly, our government will have to take loan from other neighbour countries like China and import oil, gas and electricity from Iran on low prices and favourable conditions. Hence, Pakistani government will have to take serious decisions so that economic stability and reserve resource can be enhanced.
