

Humanity Oppressing Humanity

Since ages, man has suffered either at the hands of nature or by oppression caused by his fellow man. Man with the sharpness of his mind and hardwork achieved supremacy; he defeated the threats of natural disasters by finding their scientific solutions. On the other hand, man is unable to control his own wrath. Human atrocities continue to exist in form of wars, violence and avarice. Lust for power is resulting in his tyrannical behaviour or inactivity and fear, a driving force of many.

Total words in paragraph: 319

Total words in préis: 84