

FINAL DRAFTART SPEAKS LOUDER THAN WORDS

Amidst the news of yet another Israel-Palestine Conflict, the author received an email from Nizar Hassen—a brilliant film producer—~~wrote~~ a regarding his latest film: My Grandfather's Path. It was an epic ode of a Palestinian to his homeland. The film was long but beautifully paced, and an incredibly well-curated ~~piece~~ work of art. The author writes that this film reminded him of the phrase: "Choose your enemies carefully for you would soon become like them." It reminded him that whilst this ~~absurd~~ absurd Zionist armed robbery of the remaining Palestine is going on, one must not forget the beautiful aspects of Palestinian and world cinema, art, poetry, fiction, and drama. For it could be a "moment of poetic salvation from it all". (~120 words)
