

7. Unsolved Exercises for Practice

• Practice Exercise

From the moment we are born, we cannot live alone; we stand in continual need of assistance of all around us, for body and soul and spirit; we need clothes which other men make; houses, which other men build, food, which other men produce; we have to get our livelihood by working for others, while others get their livelihood in return by working for us. As children we need our parents to be our comforters, and to take care of others: we cannot exist a day without our fellowmen; we require teachers to educate us: books and masters to teach our trade; and when we have learned it and settled ourselves in life, we require laws made by other men who died hundreds of years before we were born, to secure to us our rights and properties, to secure to our comforts in our station; and we need friends to comfort us in sorrow and to share our joy.

Practice for Precis. Demand of Mankind.

The writer narrates that a person cannot live alone in the universe. Every person requires the help of another person in order to meet their demands and earn their livelihood.

Different people are needed in different situations. A person demands his parents for comfort, teachers for education and friends for joy. Beside these, law makers are also needed to secure their rights and properties.
