Patriarchal society and female doctors:

Patriarchal society has severely damaged the female doctors to such an extent. Responsible government and such institutions have failed to educate and be aware of men, having conservative mind, about the importance of girls' education.

In the society, hard worker and talented females get the degree of MBBS, but they are deprived of doing house jobs. According to Dr. muazzam, the researcher, 70 percent female get professional degrees of MBBS every year; nevertheless, only half of 70 percent females join house job and others either get married or stay in home. There are many cases mentions on the daily basis that female doctors quit their jobs. The core reason is that they do not only take care of their spouses, but also they also look after their children.

Hence, female doctors are not allowed by the patriarchal society to move on their careers.
