

Topic:- Female harassment at workplaces exposes deeper social fault lines.

Mashal

Outline

1) Introduction

Thesis statement

2) Crunch Paragraph

3) Facets of female harassment at workplace

- Female harassment at workplace is a global issue
- It doesn't entail sexual harassment only; it appears in several other forms
- It is a major hurdle in women empowerment
- It reinforces patriarchal domination
- It adversely affects female psychology and productivity at workplaces.

4) Social fault lines exposed by female harassment at workplaces

- Male chauvinistic ideology
- Highlights the male urge to restrict women to household affairs
- Shows that men see women as sexual objects
- Highlights the economic divide between men and women; women face discrimination related to promotion and salary increments
- Highlights the divide between rich and poor; the rich can voice their harassment cases easily.

Arguments should be based on research not general impressions.

- f) Shows lack of administrative framework to control and curtail harassment
- g) Such issues are widely used for political propaganda but little is done to enforce the legislations.
- h) highlights that men are not ready to share the social sphere with their female counterparts.

5) Female harassment can be controlled through pervasive social change

- a) Men in the society (in every age group) needs to be educated about equality of men and women in every domain of life
- b) constitute strict laws and regulations at institutional and national level and ensure their adherence
- c) End victim-shaming and promote the culture of reporting harassment

6) Conclusion

The sub-idea which would be used in the outline of one paragraph written to support heading and consists of argument on which all the victims must be supported immediately the topic