Title - Purpose of education changes with social change

Societies shape future of education. Education teaches discovery and experiences of people. Different social and technological changes will shape its future. Probably, its means are going to be the same but not its ends. Purpose of all educational institutes will change. However, their responsibility will be imparting knowledge in different academic fields. In the future, they will develop intelligence as a prime national resource as per the idea of American Educator Horace Mann. ^{Similarly} State system of education as well as educational institutes will come under increasing pressure of immigration. In such circumstances, it is at the disposal of states to assimilate migrants into their cultures or not. Social sciences deem assimilation as a cultural coercion. Consequently, purpose of state system of education may change with this issue of assimilation.
