

A Holiday Trip to Cherokee

The author was confused about a tourist destination when John called up and suggested a holiday trip to Cherokee. They visited a magnificent town of Cherokee called Qualla Boundary. Its craft, livelihood and ~~historical masterpiece~~ of music ~~seemed to~~ <sup>briefly</sup> sketch the past of Cherokee. Notwithstanding lingual hurdle, the natives directed them to a souvenirs shops. They ~~were~~ ~~puzzled~~ <sup>met</sup> George, the shopkeeper as he ~~who~~ spoke fluent English. ~~George~~ <sup>He</sup> invited them for lunch where he told them how the locals sustained themselves by not relying on tourism only. The locals had tradition of entertainment industry <sup>too</sup> which ~~was very profitable~~. Finally, they stopped at Qualla's <sup>a</sup> museum which boasted a range of objects and symbols of Cherokee cosmology. Back home, the writer looked forward to next such exotic trip.

main idea is picked and discussed be precise and to the point and
be simple no need to explain extras

(word count)

Required: 120

Precis: 128

over all content is acceptable basic grammar is ok but sentences need to be precise 8/20 good to see that you have not used your Shakespearean expression this time :-D
this writing style is the basic requirement of precise