

Terrorism receive more attention as compared to the harm it causes in society. Many other aspects like politics, road accident are more threatening for society. Terrorism is just a minor problem of this industrial world. It has many other major problems which lie at its core. However terrorism is the most popular issue. It's popularity overshadows the other serious threats. It is as terrorism is widely treated as with scientific approach as terrorists give many reasons behind their actions. So people try to find causes behind terrorism. But terrorism is not scientific.

It is more related to morality. Killing is a decision which some people make and some do not. So terrorism should be judged on morality principles.
