

Translation (2017)

In order to know our hidden flaws, it is important to consider what our enemies say about us. Most of our friends praise us to our heart's content. Either they do not find fault in us or for our sake they hide our flaws or overlook them. On the contrary, our enemy carefully observes us and finds fault in everything and makes mountain out of a mole hill. But there is some truth to it. Friends always promote the good in their friends and enemies highlight the flaws in us. For that reason we must be grateful to our enemy, as he makes us aware of our defects. From this perspective, an enemy proves to be better than a friend.

Translation 2018

The city of Lahore is not only a political but also an ancient cultural hub. The Mughal culture witnessed zenith within this city. It was also a center of Sikh culture. This city had a rich literary heritage. It was also a center of Sufi-mystics. The author of famous book "Kashaf-ul-Mahjub", Hazrat ~~Dada~~ Ali Hajveri popularly known as Hazrat Dada Ganga Buksh is also buried in this city. During British period, Lahore's fashion was popular all over India. Even after the creation of Pakistan, the significance of this city did not decline.

(b) Narration (2018)

Jack greeted Swarup who was swatting away as usual. He (Jack) suggested him (Swarup) to come out ; shut up his old books and had a game of tennis. Swarup excused / made an excuse to Jack and told him (Jack) that he could not do that as the examination was drawing near and he wanted every hour he could get for study. Jack annoyingly said to Swarup to hang all examination and told him that he did not worry about his examination and further added what was the use of them (examination) anyway. Swarup explained Jack that he could not get a degree if he did not pass the examination and added that he (Swarup) had set his heart on being a graduate. Jack asked Swarup what good would graduation do him (Swarup). ~~added~~, he further added that he (Swarup) might get a clerkship in government office ; but that was all and that there were hundreds of fellows who had gotten their degrees and were no nearer getting jobs of any sort. Swarup replied to Jack that it might be that ; but he (Swarup) was not studying so much to pass his examination and obtain his degree as to store his mind with knowledge and develop his intellectual faculties.