

NAME: WAJHA SADAF
Precis - 2010

Title: Envy is the curse - its cure

An envious person is unfortunate as he always remained unhappy of what others have rather than contented to what he has. He tries to deprive others. If envy is infiltrated in world in this world, it would destroy excellence. Envy has no answer to questions that why skillful persons enjoy their privileges even they can be envious for some time. However, envy can be abated by admiration. Different people have different cure for envy. For saints, selflessness is the cure of envy but for ordinary man, happiness is the cure of envy. Although being happy is difficult for envious person, but after realizing ~~curse~~ cause of envy one can move towards its cure.

Total words: 348
Precis words: 110