

Day: _____

Changing World order and

Pakistan's Foreign Policy

ESSAY:

World enters a new era of multipolarity as the US ~~multi~~ unipolar world order is challenged by the rising states. For decades USA ~~has~~ enjoyed the position of being the only superpower in the world. However, the changing scenario of global politics paints a rather grim picture for US. The emergence of Asian economies and the rejection of western liberal Democratic system indicates the changing world order.

China is emerging as a global power with a strong economy. Its Belt and Road Initiative project is increasing its influence over the states. US is challenged by the rising Chinese economy and the world is experiencing the economic rivalries between the two. US hegemony is declining ~~as~~ as a result of revival of global south particularly China and Russia. This changing world order have certain implications on the Pakistan's Foreign Policy. This may spark sectarian issues as well as the increase in terrorism.

This could be a ~~threat~~ threat to CPEC, that would also trigger the economic situation. It would be ^{become} difficult for Pakistan ^{in its} fight for Kashmir cause. Pakistan needs to play its cards intelligently to extract maximum benefits and secure its national interest from the changing world order. It needs to foster its relations with neighboring countries and refrain from joining the offensive block. Pakistan needs to work on its economy rather than relying on the geo strategic position solely. Projection of soft image of Pakistan is the need of the hour. Amidst the changing world order Pakistan's Foreign policy also needs to be ^{be} adjusted accordingly. The world is experiencing the changing world order, from America's unipolar world order to multipolar world order. Formation of new alliances can be seen in the midst of this change. This will have a potential impact on the Pakistan's Foreign Policy. Pakistan needs to ^{rationality} formulate its Foreign Policy to maximize the benefits from the changing global order.

Day: _____