

"It matters not what someone is born, but what they grow to be"

OUTLINE

01) Introduction

Thesis statement: It is of no importance that from where someone or something starts; what truly matters is the result at the end of the process.

02) The pattern of growth is of significant importance rather than the condition from which it took place.

03) The significance of growth at fundamental level

3.1) Achieving success despite the constraints of limited resources.

3.2) Minor disputes in family, if left unresolved, can escalate into a life-long conflict.

3.3) Chance encounters or relationships can evolve into enduring commitments.

3.4) Initially compelled into a profession, but later it becomes more cherished than any other.

3.5) The quest to uncover the unknown phenomenon evolved into a vast wellspring of knowledge.

3.6) The expansion of Islam from its origin to a worldwide religion.

04) The importance of development on the international stage.

- 4.1) An endeavor to link nations evolved into the formidable force of globalization.
- 4.2) The conflict that erupted in one region had repercussions felt by nations across the globe.
- 4.3) The transformation of modest economies into a global economic powerhouses.
- 4.4) The release of greenhouse gases has emerged as a worldwide concern.
- 4.5) The global dissemination of diseases originating from an endemic area.
- 4.6) The escalation of prices in international market.

05) The significance of growth in Pakistan's development.

- 5.1) The fight for people's right evolved into a political movement, ultimately culminating in ^{the} creation of Pakistan.
- 5.2) Taking a debt during times of necessity turned into a habit, leading to a vicious cycle.
- 5.3) The present political polarization at its zenith.
- 5.4) The continuing surge of terrorism & extremism in Pakistan.
- 5.5) The evolution of Pakistan's relations with other nations.

5.6) What began as a short-term military intervention evolved into an ongoing process within the democratic framework.

6) Conclusion.