

Purpose of Education

Among the three schools of thought regarding freedom in children's education, Rousseau galvanized the third one, which states that freedom is necessary for children to be upright. However, to the author, despite being well received, this view doesn't hold water as it overlooks the fact that children on their own, cannot be so virtuous. Arguably the world today not just requires impulsive intuition to be cooperative but is in dire need of a well-coordinated self controlled and disciplined community. Thus education should be of dual advantage and must provide both map for advancement and a basis for children's morality and upstanding
