

Smuggling has long been the serious threat for the economy of Pakistan. Pakistan is suffering in billions of its resources due to drain of resources through smuggling. This is the time that Pakistan should adapt measures to combat the smuggling. One of them is by using Artificial intelligence and technical learning, in which control the cross border smuggling by checking monitoring data through AI and flagging irregularities in imports and exports. Smuggling not only has effected the economy but also challenged the law and stability in the country. Pakistan must train its law and enforcing agencies with modern technologies equipments. Training and educating the citizens can also play the vital role in combating the the smuggling. Peaceful and serious talk over this issues with neighbouring countries as well as with regional and international organization by collaboration and information sharing.
