

Essay: Gender equality is a myth

Outline

1. Introduction

Thesis statement: Equal rights for men and women may seem real progress, but it is a myth. Sadly, they do not have the same rights despite ^{its} appearances. Gender equality is a dream that has not come true in the societies.

2. How gender equality is myth?

3. Gender equality is a myth

a. Gender equality is not a reality due to unequal salaries

b. Women struggle to secure jobs in various sectors

c. Social stigmas ^{are} attached with women ^{roles} represent gender inequality

d. Women lack political empowerment.

e. Religious misinterpretation contributes to gender inequality.

4. Gender equality is not a myth

a. Equal salaries does not ensure complete gender equality.

b. Women quota for jobs ensure gender equality in different sectors.

c. Stigmas about women do not always gender inequality.

d. Quotas in parliament are seen as gender equality.

e. Religion does not disempower genders but promotes equality.

5. Exploping gender equality is a myth

a. Equal pay is key for achieving gender equality.

- b. Job quotas for women may not align with their population proportion.
- c. Social stigmas may limit women participations in social activities
- d. Despite quotas, women's political representation remains low
- e. Misinterpretation hinders religious gender equality, posing challenges for true equality

6. Conclusion