

Translation (2016)

general masses are of the view that

In the common people's view, individual's liberty and the law of the land are inextricably linked. Apparently, this is not wrong because every law imposes some kind of restrictions on citizens. The greater the law, the greater the collective sanctions, which suppresses the freedom of the individual. On the contrary, if the laws are less, the freedom of the individual is wider.

well done satisfactory

7/10