Q:2

Answer- Introduction

"Gender is constructed through different forms of discourse."

(- Julia)

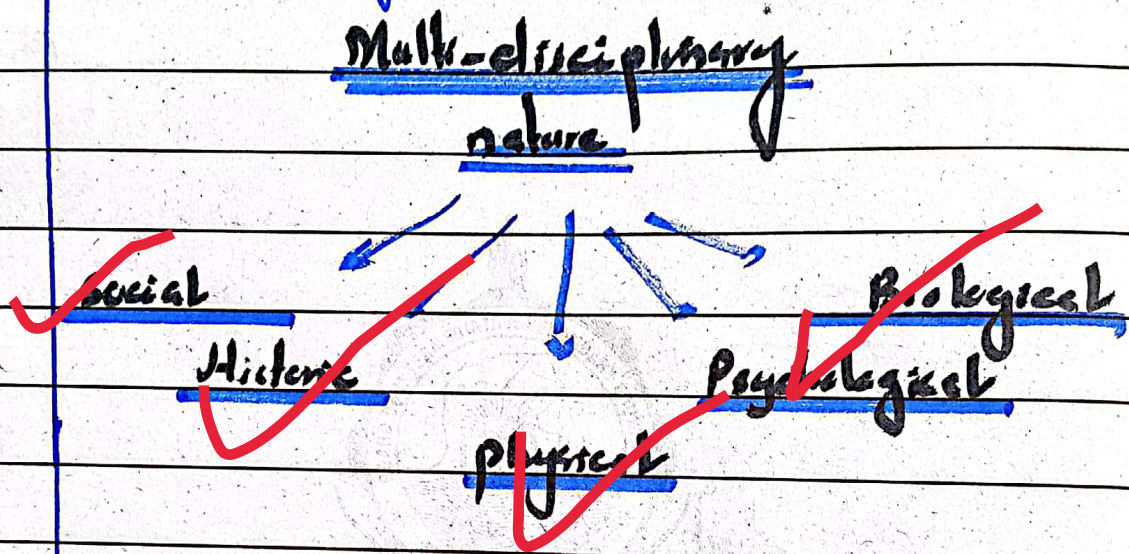

Gender is a Biologically identity, which is constructed by multiple norms of society. Various branches, including Sociology, Psychology, Biology, etc explain multi-disciplinary nature of Gender Studies. This shows that Gender is multi-disciplinary branch.

2- An overview of Multi-disciplinary nature

"Multi-disciplinary nature explains multiple norms of society."

(- Multi-disciplinary nature of Gender Studies)

Gender Studies is not limited at Biological discourses, but it has a widened scope. It explains multiple focuses of Gender, associated with society.

Thus, Gender Studies is multi-disciplinary field.

3- Explanation of multi-disciplinary nature of Gender Studies namely:

Following is explanation:

a) Sociological view

Gender Studies has a social view. In fact, Gender Studies is socially constructed.

"Man is male,
and

Woman is female,
Man is master,
and

female is mistress."

However, ~~Queer Theory~~ explains it as,
"Opposite pairs should not be promoted."

This shows that Gender Studies is shaped by Sociology.

Male	Female
Prince	Princess
King	Queen
Manager	Manageress
Host	Hostess

b) Biological overview

Along with Sociology, Gender Studies is also supported by Biology. Biological concern has shaped gender as,

"Male genital is a source of pleasure."

(Sigmund Freud)

This shows how Biological identity shapes Gender Studies.

c) Anthropological perspective

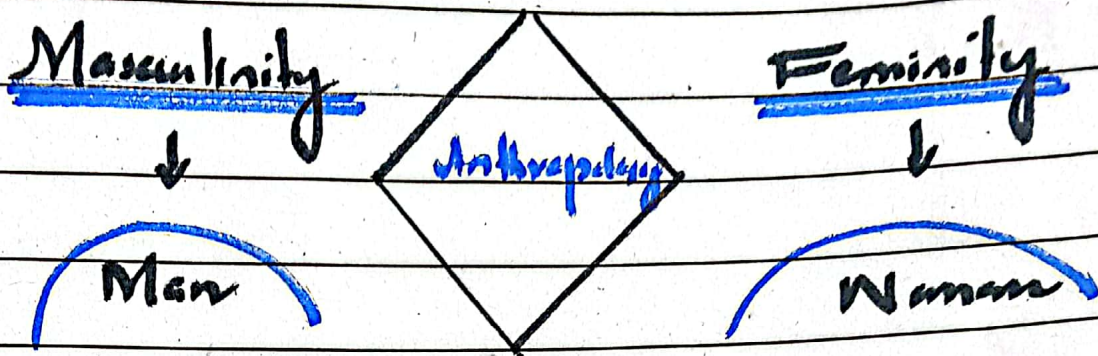

Further, Anthropology has also supported multi-disciplinary nature of Gender Studies.

"Masculinity is a character of males, while femininity is associated with females."

(Anthropological view)

Gender Studies

This indicates Gender Studies is also multi-disciplinary.

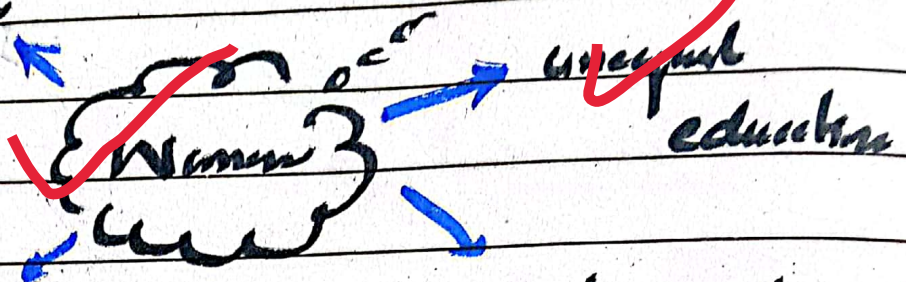

d) History related to Gender

Furthermore, History has also deep connection to Gender Studies. Historical evidences show that Gender studies is a multi-disciplinary nature as,

“Women were unpaid, women had unequal job opportunities; and unequal education.”

(The New York Times, 1914)

unpaid

no right to vote

unequal employment

Hence, History has encouraged multi-disciplinary nature of Gender Studies.

e) Physical ^{Change your market as few words are unrealistic} interaction with Gender

Moreover, Gender Studies is mainly shaped in physical perceptions. Physically performances related to genders explain as multiple norms.

"Woman has specific jobs, as she is physically weak."

(Geneva Convention 1949)

Physical Norms

Male

brave strong aggressive intimidating

Female

feminine weak innocent kind

This explains multiple physically attributes related to gender.

f)

Literature's view about gender

Literature has also association with Gender Studies. Literally view has concern about gender roles.

"Woman is heroine,
while

Man is hero."

(Literature role)

Thus, Gender studies has also concern to Literature.

Multi-disciplinary nature of Gender Studies

4- Conclusion

"Men's equality respects

women's equality."

(Fermat)

Gender Studies is multi-disciplinary nature. It has deep concerns to multiple norms of society. The above discussion shows that Gender Studies is multi-disciplinary nature.

You need to link few points on how it can be integrated with other field as well and show it in headings
