

Day 1

26-12-23

Another step towards stability:

The

electoral process, that was looking never to happen anytime soon, is firmly moving forward in recent weeks. The Supreme Court has strictly ordered to hold elections on the given date. However, it still doesn't ensure the transparency in electoral process. The nominations have been filed by the designated parties' leaders. But most of the mainstream parties haven't decided their manifestos yet.

Unlike some mature democracies, Pakistan is still stuck in the ethnic politics with the exception of some tech-savvy individuals. These individuals will demand to fulfill their necessities like education, healthcare etc. Politicians should provide a tangible step-by-step plan to get Pakistan out of this economic instability. While state should provide the level playing field to all the parties and let public decide who's going to run the country for the next five years.

Good
Keep writing