

Essay Topic: Gender inequality: a myth or reality.

1. Introduction:

Thesis Statement: Since the inception of mankind, male and female are treated unequal and the society views both the genders with different prism. Majority of the views are that gender inequality is a myth, but the attitude of the society with female is the testimony of the fact that the gender inequality is a reality. However, by imparting awareness and educating the society can change the gender inequality into gender equality.

2. What is gender inequality: An overview.

3. Gender inequality is a reality. (Thesis)

a. Lack of opportunities to women in political sphere.

b. No specific policy making for women empowerment.

c. Women are deprived from <sup>their</sup> economic rights.

d. No proper educational facilities for women.

e. Women are more subjected to violence.

3. Gender inequality is a myth. (Anti-thesis)

a. Women are the essential part of legislature.

b. Government has prioritized women empowerment.

c. Laws by government are promulgated to ensure economic rights of women.

d. Different educational institutions have been developed especially for females.

e. Constitution has acted as safeguard against gender based violence.

4. In one way or another, gender inequality exists. (Synthesis).

a. Representation of women in political arena is still dwindling.

b. Women are kept aside from their core rights.

c. The test lies in the proper implementation of promulgated economic rights.

d. Patriarchal society has put halt to female education.

Do not start the argument with "still" common in patriarchal community.

5. Conclusion

"Freedom can't be achieved unless women have been emancipated from all kinds of oppression." - Nelson Mandela.

Keep writing