Human inequalities hinder human emancipation. The more targeted people in our society, the less they enjoy freedom. Therefore, less prestiged groups like women, children and minorities can not raise their voice in any issue due to the lack of resources. Furthermore, they are not socially protected to enjoy freedom. In Covid-19, many children bound to their homes because of the closure of educational institutions, and continued online education. Meanwhile, children who were from remote areas could not enjoy the facility and they were restricted to live in certain areas. In addition to that, a man with low resource is always in the chains of criticism which is the biggest hindrance in his freedom. Hence, human inequalities restrict the people by hindering their way to freedom.
