Major changes in India-West relations have been observed in recent times. West has seen India as a main source to counter emerging dominance of China in Asia, for which it has established great relations with Indian state. But the new anti-Modi documentary released by BBC, which has spread like fire demonstrating brutality of Hindutva ideology against Muslims in 2002. This documentary illustrates a key step towards abandoning Modi on international platforms and exposing real image of him. Furthermore, 3rd richest man of "Adani" - an Indian man - laid down to 9th position due to huge ^{world} loss of 8.19% in net worth resulting in having $85.7B left (Forbes, 2023). Opposition leader Rahul Gandhi has accused him for being in close connection with Modi and getting illegal advantages from him, which have damaged the integrity of state. In this regard, SEBI has said that it will take immediate action and investigate this case. Moreover, Rahul Gandhi's views against China have gained popularity in West. He highlighted India-China conflicts many times and criticized Prime Minister for his stagnant approach towards this issue. This clearly demonstrates that West is gradually distancing itself from relying on Modi as a saviour of US against communist ideology of China.
