Humans are social animals, without interacting with each other, they cannot survive. For this purpose, we interact many people in our lives and build friendship zones with them. Though, finding a true friend in today's world is nothing more than a blessing itself. Now-a-days, friendships are based on personal gains, and once they are achieved, people leave. However, this point is not justified in all cases because friendship does not only mean to be with strangers, but one could be its own friend, ones parents could also play this role. Moreover, as a muslim, we believe in Almighty Allah, we all firmly believe that he is a sustainer and a guider, he is the best of all. He is eternal and all-alone. Thus, as a muslim we should believe that he is a best of all to consider as a best friend. Allah says that I am the only one who will never leave you, never mistaken you and never do injustice. Even if you leaves and forgets me in the search of this worldly affairs, I still awaits and when if you come I welcome you and never reminds you of your sins, I just ask for repentance with good will and sincerity. Likewise, when we say that a friend is one who walks in, when everyone walks out. For me, it is just Allah and ^{our} parents. No other friendship could be more sincere or guaranteed in the times of need. As we have heard, 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.' When we talk about these worldly friendships, we see that when we start to learn to speak as a child, our journey to make friends also starts.

Start. We love to play with our siblings and more often with cousin sisters or brothers. It is a stage when we learn to practice this social skill. At that time, we find it so interesting and joy^{ful}, even though, we love to sacrifice our routine, leave our home to visit them at their place and so on. Then, a stage comes when we start our schooling, it is the most crucial phase of everyone's life and everyone could agree to it. It is a time when most of the serious and long-term friendships are built. In my opinion, it is the most critical part of ^{our} self-growth and self-journey. The gatherings you follow, the personality you become. ~~But~~ However, most of us are unaware of the fact, lacks direction and ^{may} fall into the trap of wrong-doers. It is not what we actually want to become, however it is what we become not knowingly. In my consideration, it is a responsibility of every parents to teach their children how and where to go, before reaching this phase of life. Undoubtedly, it is a time when most of us get manipulated and lose our destination by indulging into temporary and dangerous habits or things. Parents must guide that everything which you may seem good today and finds pleasure in, is nothing but a deceive. By considering their friendships accountable, and the way their child behaves all day, parents could interpret the best strategies and solutions according to requirement. Learning a skill of balancing relations is an important tool especially in case of friendships, that what to share and what not, where to ask and where not, where to join and where not. If one remains unaware of these questions and continue to deal in friendship. one day, he might regret for all ~~his~~ ^{his} life. Depending on others to take your decisions, sharing all secrets, prioritizing them more than your self ^{and} ~~you~~ goal could result in heavy price to pay off. Thus, learning these things by your mind and guiders such as parents is thousands time better than falling into depression when all ~~they~~ walk out from your life in the times of need and ^{then} you find it hard enough to manage yourself alone because you have never tried to balance or learn that skill.

Well, ~~a~~ friends ^{are} always there with you in the times of pleasure and joyfulness. They spend good times with one another and build memories. I must say, it was a best time of my life when my school friends were all around and we had made memories together. In the same way, it is a best time in everyone's life when they ^{have} had experienced their friendships on the top, with no personal gains or purposes but with a true and empathetic heart. As a kid, it was true but as we grew up, our priorities and way of perception towards life started to change and we started to build friendships on the behalf of some motives or personal gains. According to realist theory, it is stated that human is egoistic and always go for personal gains which supports my idea. Thus, ~~a~~ friends follow you in a light but leave you in a dark.

Out of them all, few may love to ask about your personal life and try to manipulate you. If you were not aware of their tricks,

You may be caught in the web. Then, a series pattern of tricks followed. Moreover, they trick your decisions, make you dependent and self-conscious. It could lead to worst outcomes in life which one may regret ^{later} for its whole life. But by keeping in mind that only you are responsible of your decisions as only you would have to face them alone, one could not be caught in this web. They would fail to manipulate you.

Moreover, we all have one special friend in our lives with whom we could share our joyful as well as sorrowful moments. Someday, when we are going through tough times, we need that ^{friend} by our side. When we ask them to be with us, support us or guide us, most of the times, they leave, however in a very few case, ~~but~~ he help his friend to get him out of a dark. Indeed, the one who stays during dark days deserves to be call as a true friend. At the same time, those who leave you alone while your darkest hours are just fake friends. They are not true friends instead they could ~~result~~ harm you by their wrong or mean intentions.

In my opinion, a true friend is not who just provide sympathy on need by calling such phrases that "this too shall pass." However, it is a one who tries his best to take you out of those problems, who not only stays with you on those days but a one who bring 'cool days' again ^{in your life} or at least try his best in their favor.

It is a time when we experience reality and come out of our imagination world.

Date: _____

A time when we become mature, learn new things about life and starts to understand life psychology and philosophy. This not only helps us to building fair connections but to develop our inner growth as well.

Yes, it is a time when if problems walks in, everyone walks out. In my opinion, the more struggles one faces, the more strong one becomes. Thus, sometimes, problems are blessing in disguise. In life, nothing can teach us more than our experiences. We may not understand it while that time but as one it pass, we all do agree that it was a blessing which I had not been aware of. Resultantly, we become fearless and strong.

As Allah says that I know what you know, but you ~~know~~ not know what I know, and surely we do not know what is good for us and what is not. He is the best of all who knows everything about us, more than we do. Moreover, he never leaves us alone in hardship alone despite he provide us power to control our emotions with ^{and strength} patience. He is the one, who sees all our efforts and sorrows and he has promised to give us reward for all of them, even for a small ^{which accidentally appears} cut on our body. However, we forget him in our bright days but rely on him in our bad days, means when everyone walks out and we become alone, we call him. He never leaves us alone and he never burdens a soul ^{beyond} more than its tolerance. Allah is the one who knows us more than anybody else could ^{even} know.

Allah has explained his love for us by giving an example of a mother's love. Mother loves us more than we love our own self. she always take care of us. If Allah has took her example, for showing us his love towards the Holy Prophet's Ummah, then of course, her love to his child is desirable and incomparable. she is After Allah, she is the one who understand us when no one else ^{even} listen. she takes stand for us while others criticize. Finally, she is the one who is our true best friend in this world, However it takes a lot of years to understand it truly but once we realize, we came to know that undoubtedly she is our actual companion and the very first companion in this materialistic world while Allah is our best protector and guider in whole universe. A mother never walks out, even if everyone else may walk out. she is the only ~~one~~ that friend who follows, however not only follows but pull you out of the dark. Moreover, by the blessing of Allah and her efforts, we never loose hope and continue to enjoy and embrace all happenings or ups and downs of life. A mother's love to his child is incomparable.

Though, we learn that who is our true friend, it does not mean that we should not interact with people and ^{not} build good relations with them. We should, in fact we all must do. However, this all just means that we should keep balance in life and being aware of its true colors but at the same time, we should embrace all its colors. Not everyone is same. This world is full of all types of people but the sad part is we cannot judge or know what is inside them so, it is better to understand the fact and keep balance in all your affairs and dealings of life. Preparing yourself for the worst is much more important than relying only on ~~hop~~ good hope. I must say, we all should hope for the best but prepare for the worst. It is the only way to overcome any struggle or hardship that comes to your path. Being disciplined and goal-oriented is important to gain success in life. One should not blame others or situation for his failures & instead accept them and keep moving on or keep trying. First we need to become sincere to our own selves, then only others would do to the same. In short, we must not isolate ourselves because being isolated is not recommended by Allah as well as not promoted. We, being a social animal, requires to interact and socialize, and it is a beauty of life.

As we saw that Allah and mother are true friends in our life but before knowing this fact, we all should become a friend of our own self. Most of us are unaware of our inner-self and we used to neglect our health whether physical or physiological. Once we get to know about ourself, life becomes beautiful and balanced. At the same time, we all need to be active socially as well as understand that not every we meet in life is a true person. By knowing this fact, balance is maintained and we become enough for ourselves even if others walk out because whatever happens, Allah never leave us alone and our mother also ~~remains~~ stands by our side.
