Precis:

- Title: ① Learn from History
② Lessons from History

There is a relation between past and future. People who glorify the past and not analyse it, do not succeed. The people who learn from past and improve themselves for future they will be successful. They learn from the rise and fall of the previous civilizations. In contrary to this some people and government take narrow view of history. They avoid critical inquiries into the past and are never able to get benefit from past. They study history but learn nothing from it.
