Precis:- Title: i) Overpopulation: A Deliberate Neglect.
ii) Ignored Population Issue

In the modern society people are deliberately ignoring Overpopulation if the state has to deal with increasing humanitarian need, some barriers are required otherwise it will lead to population outburst. Those who want to maintain their lifestyle will control the birth rate, while the other useless section of society will continue depleting their resources. It is an important matter but political leaders will not bring it up because of their vested interests. Overpopulation is in the interest of businessman who wants more labour; and of militarists and revolutionists who consider overpopulation as a potential. They also use religious narratives to achieve their aims.
