On the second day of year 2023, I was sitting and wondering what would be my life in 2033. I being close to 38 at that time, what would be doing and where would be. ~~But~~ I might be sitting in some foreign country, representing my country as a foreign officer, or pursuing another dream but I would love the first scenario more as I was striving <sup>hard</sup> to achieve that goal at that time. But then my thoughts drove <sup>me</sup> to the utmost reality that I might not be alive at that time as life is uncertain. But that does not mean that we should not struggle to achieve our goals. Therefore, I promised myself that wherever I would be after ten years, I would strive to achieve my goals and to be a better human being until my last breath because that uncertainty is the beauty of ~~life~~ life.
