Developing morality in humans for their survival

Discovering the empathetic use of intelligence is probably the only way to protect humans. Morality and intelligence must be developed in parallel because it makes humans responsible and enhance their protection. But such development is a challenge to education system. Moral development was responsibility of the clergy and they failed in fulfilling this responsibility. Modern busy men ignore problems of social morality and power guides their morality which can result in nuclear catastrophe. Therefore, the ~~it~~ education system is hoped that education would infuse moral values in humans. A way to make humans empathetic in their training must be found.
