

NOA MOCK Narration:

Customer asked salesman if he had any good ointment for rash skin and salesman asked whose skin it was. Customer replied with wonder that human skin. Further salesman exclaimed that he [salesman] thought he [customer] had needed it for herself. Customer asked what he meant and again customer asked whether he was not human. Customer salesman replied to customer that might be. Further he [salesman] replied that he had wanted to know the age or skin type. Therefore customer exclaimed with wonder that her age was the same age as he was. Salesman ~~replied~~ replied that he could say that again; however, it did not answer his question.

NOA MOCK Correction

- 1) "Why are you shouting at me?" He asked the boy.
- 2) He is neither intelligent nor clever.
- 3) Driving Late at night, he saw the moon on the highway.
- 4) When all is said and done, the truth would be clear.
- 5) Go home and take a cold shower to soothe you.
- 6) They have resolved and never go back to the market.