

Precis.

Practical work trains members of society. It is the art to fit a particular member in a society. It does not bound a person to a particular profession or field. University does not produce legends and immortal man. It does not ^{produce} Newtons through miracles. It does not also criticize other economist and engineers. University training helps to cultivate the mind by providing specific principles and discards irrelevant practices from a man. It prepares a student to be master in any field by providing facilities that are required.

Title
