TITLE: MAN UNDER DIFFERENT CLIMATE

Beneficial effects of cold are observed in northern Europe but the cold climate hinders the growth, energy and daily life activities of man. Likewise, hot climate enhances the activity and mastery. Cold climate also gives them vigour through which they have to continue their daily life activities. Furthermore, life of man in tropics is different because there is little need of daily life necessities which includes food and shelter that can be easily obtained from this friendly earth. Change in behaviours and mindset of people occurs due to changing in season. So the life is easy in hot weather as compared to cold. ~~Little~~ little effort is needed in temperate weather.
