1) INTRODUCTION

Thesis statement: Gender equality is not a myth because one can witness other genders progressing in socio-economic, political and legal domains. Some might disagree, however; their stance is not really convincing.

2) GENDER EQUALITY IS NOT A MYTH

(A) Contrary to previous traditions, genders other than male doing progress in politics and governance

(B) Women challenging the traditional school of thought: "Woman can not work efficiently on top positions of Chief Financial Officers, Chief Executive Officers, etc."

(ii) Unlike previous, woman actively participating as Voter and representative during polls and elections.

(iii) Unlike before, woman successfully completing their tenures as Presidents, Prime Ministers, etc.

(B) Woman and transgenders' progress in Economic Sectors.

(i) Woman acquiring job in different industries and sectors accompanied by the quota system for jobs.

(ii) Women as investors and entrepreneurs in various industries across world.

(iii) Unlike before, transpersons acquiring jobs at respectable positions.

(c) Social uplift of genders other than man:-

(i) Woman receiving same education as man.

(ii) Woman enjoying independency while taking major decisions.

(D) Augmented legal protection to woman and transgenders.

3) SKEPTICISM ABOUT OTHER GENDERS' PROGRESS :

"GENDER EQUALITY IS A MYTH" : AN OPPOSING, YET UNCONVINCING STANCE.

(A) Women and transpersons are highly exposed to harassment and violence; however, laws and ordinances can punish and overcome this.

(B) Both face economic and social inequities especially in third world countries, ~~however~~, followed by patriarchy; however, it is not patriarchy but slackness of woman and transpersons themselves that lag them behind.

(c) Trans-people can never achieve attain equal respect in the society; however, the mindset followed by them becomes responsible basically for their backwardness.

(D) Fears created in the mind of woman due to continuous suppression by man will never vanish; however, education and consultation have already played their part in removing this fear

(E) Patriarchy will continue to be a pre-dominant factor of society; however, man has already started to lose its dominant position.

4) CONCLUSION
