Rephrase' not making sense

7:00 Reforms are political process rather than purely technical ones. Keeping in view of modern world, bringing change in any country through reforms 8:00 proves to be key role in its progress. But giving policy areas wholeheartedly to technocrats without any political intervention results in nonetheless but a failure. As seen in recent actions taken by former 9:00 PM Manmohan in sections of finance, taxes, digitalisations, investments, and civil services. Appointees often lack the knowledge of coalition building and political approach needed for reform process. Their 10:00 technical policy choices may have unintended political consequences and may end up strengthening already powerful group which lead to instability. It may result is focusing on technical 11:00 aspects rather than structural issues of reforms. It takes away responsibility from electives and gives it to unelected officials who may ignore public preferences which results in inability of government officials to lead key reforms.
12:00 Thus, in order to improve results of reforms combined approach of technocrats and politicians ~~is~~ is necessary.

The crisis in Punjab shows no signs of abating. After the ouster of former PM from federal government, competition between PTI and coalition party for gaining Punjab provincial power is talk of the town, which has pushed Pakistan's politics in a state of political and economical instability. Mr. Khan had threatened to dissolve two provincial assemblies if his demand for early, free and fair elections is not accepted. This was counteracted by opposition through vote of confidence motion against CM Punjab. Governor of Punjab issued a letter to summon a session within three days in order to complete the due process of VOC. Punjab assembly speaker pronounced this step as illegal as the previous session in PA is still going on and has not ended. To call another session without completing proceedings of previous session is against constitution. This led to further escalation of political war between both parties and denotifying CM Punjab by its Governor on Friday due to inability to conduct VOC within given time has uproar resentments and ultimately landed before judiciary for arbitration. This has deeply destructed political policies of Pakistan and endangered constitution, which shows no signs to be ended.

Seems like a journalist style
You need to make it but formal by omitting informal language e.g
Avoid Mr, timely repeating of CM, avoid merging to different ideas together at the initial step of practicing

State institutions made a mistake by deciding to initiate peace talks with banned TTP. The agreement of ceasefire between TTP and pak government in Nov: 2022 after peaceful negotiations proved to be initial step leading to further stability and stronghold of militant groups in northern areas of Pakistan. It had provided an opportunity to TTP to gather their forces and escalate violence again in territory of Pakistan. Recent attacks of the aggressive group in Baru and Islamabad along with seizing CTO compound in Baru by Taliban and taking more than 30 army officials as hostages shows how badly our state institutions have failed in materializing peace talks. ^{Avoid interrogative words} Although, afghan government have ensured to entertain peace in sub-continent but they have failed to demonstrate it by their actions. Our institutions have failed to connect these relatable dots between afghan Taliban and TTP as both have same ideology and socio-cultural norms. ^{Follow subject verb agreement} Hoping from afghan Taliban to mediate peace talks and abandon TTP is nothing more than a fantasy which is proved by recent hike in attacks across the country.

Structure is fine yet you need to exhibit formal style
