

title:

Forced Accession of Jodhpur with India

Many rulers of Princely states were reluctant of making an accession with India just like Raja of Jodhpur. He was afraid of losing his liberty under the leadership of Congress. Jinnah, in spite of knowing ground realities, offered him complete liberty for making a deal of accession with Pakistan. Mahasajah was interested in Jinnah's offer. But V.P. Menon met him. He excused Raja that Viceroy was calling him urgently. Mountbatten, on the request of Menon, forced Raja to make accession with India. Viceroy warned him that, this accession would not guarantee his liberty.

90/266

Passage Solution

- (a) What change has occurred in the profession of teaching during the last hundred years?

Formerly, teaching was not a profession but an important branch of public service. A small, highly skilled group of people opted this field. They enjoyed complete liberty in spreading their views. But, now education is state department and teachers are responsible to state for their duty.

- (b) What do you consider to be the basic functions of a teacher in the olden days?

The basic functions of a teacher in olden days included to inculcate their knowledge and wisdom in student's minds. They were responsible to shape public opinion and character of their disciples.

- (c) What handicaps does modern teacher face as compared to the teachers in the olden days?

In olden days, teachers were free to spread their views

regarding anything happening
in the world. But now,
as the education is state
responsibility, teachers are bound to follow state
policy even in curriculum
development and adoption
of teaching methodology.
