

Subheading: Nuclear Challenge to World Peace during the 21st Century.

The nuclear challenge to the world peace is a complex issue that has been present throughout the 21st century. The systematic destruction of arms control treaties and disregard for international law by some world leaders have led to a new nuclear arms race and widespread concerns about national and global security. These problems are linked with a growth in the politics of nationalism, self protection and prejudice. However there are many efforts being made to promote global peace and security. For example, the comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban Treaty (CTBT) (Robert Floyd, Executive Secretary of the Comprehensive Nuclear-Test-Ban Treaty Organization) signed the treaty. Parties will meet at UN headquarters in April conference every five years.
