

DATE: ___/___/___

Every country and its people consider themselves significant over other states and nations. Be it French, German, Italian or even Indian. But it is not wholly true. Individual and states, both possess good and bad attributes. The good needs appreciation while bad should be discouraged. India should work to make progress and make its poor people happier. It should observe other states and adopt the positives ^{it sees} in them.