

A Paragraph on "Suspension of Internet Services in Kurram"

The narrative that the world is a global village stands upon a single pillar, internet. If removed the world will get disintegrated and the whole system will collapse. Kurram, which recently witnessed land disputes coupled with sectarian clashes is isolated from the rest of the world. Internet services have been suspended for the last two weeks. Student organizations protested for the restoration of internet services, however, rarely echoed in media and in power corridors. The condition created disarray in students and in general public. As the banking system, NADRA and online education are unable to function. Many waiting for the processing of their CNICs & Passports while some are in line to receive money from abroad. Students taking online classes, taking admissions in universities and applying for the MDCAT are all flawed and counting their fingers as the last dates are approaching.

Government may look into the matter on priority basis as it is pertinent for the future of students and all.
