In every country, people imagine that they are the best and the cleverest and the others are not so good as they are. The Englishman thinks that he and his country are the best; the Frenchman is very proud of France. The Germans and Italians think no less of their countries and many Pakistanis imagine that Pakistan is in many ways the greatest country in the world. This is wrong. Everybody wants to think well of himself and his country. But really there is no person who has not got some good and some bad qualities. In the same way there is no country which is not partly good and partly bad. We must take the good wherever we find it and try to remove the bad wherever it may be. We are, of course, most concerned with our own country. Unfortunately, it is in a bad way today. Many of our people are poor and unhappy. They have no joy in their lives. We have to find out how we can make them happier. We have to see what is good in our ways and customs and try to keep it, and whatever is bad we have to throw away. If we find anything good in other countries, we should certainly take

Title: Mindset of people in the world

In every country in the world, people believe they are the best and superior than others. The author emphasizes the need to avoid this mindset and instead openness to learn from others.

Every country, like every individual has both strengths and weaknesses, and imperfections are present everywhere.

The key is to acknowledge weakness while celebrating the strengths. While caring for one's country and people is more important. However, genius happiness can be achieved through the adoption of positive practice from diverse culture.
